Let your taste buds do the travelling

A bitter what you fancy...

Welcome to the 26th Jersey Beer and Cider Festival.

We have a great assortment of beers from across the UK including new breweries as well as locally brewed beer from Liberation Group, and a new brewery from Guernsey - White Rock. A wide variety of ciders and perries are available and Top Tipples have, as always, a broad selection of continental bottled beers to choose from as well. We are confident there is an ale for all.

We've maintained the layout of the bars this year with a geographical split around the British Isles. The beers are arranged in alphabetical order at each of the bars and they have indicators of comparative strengths. The tasting notes will also guide you as to the styles of beer available. Please assist our staff by heading to the bar section where your chosen drink is located.

We have again invited Dunell's to offer from their range of premier wines and food is available throughout from Jersey Kitchen/First Class Catering. There will also be live music Thursday and Saturday evening from the Beer Cats and Sgt. Pipons respectively.

Britain has long had a reputation for warm, flat beer but the reality is far from that perception. There are over 2,500 different real ales brewed regularly in the British Isles, half of drinkers have tried cask ale and last year's industry reports show that real ale grew in what is a declining beer market.

Bitter is the national drink of the UK and in most pubs "a pint of bitter" remains a standard order for beer and most brewers produce at least one bitter. They developed towards the end of the C19th as brewers began to produce beers that could be served in pubs after only a few days storage in the cellar. Before the advent of pump clips the request for a bitter meant you wouldn't be served a sweeter, less hopped mild. The term stuck.

The style is broad, growing out of pale ales but colour ranges from pale straw to deep russet through use of darker crystal malts. The best bitters balance crisp, biscuit maltiness and a citrusy and fruity hop character with a bite of bitterness in the finish. Fermented with a top-fermenting yeast, which helps produce warm fruity notes ranging from 1030 (3% ABV) to 1055 OG (5.5%). The brewer's skill is exemplified by the ability to produce a low ABV drink yet with so much flavour and character.

Our chosen charity this year for the funds raised by our retiring collection of unused tokens and cash is Jersey Hospice. The Hospice and its fund raising activities will be well known to most locals. Established in the early 80s they have provided shelter, care, support and counselling to thousands of people across the Island's community. Please give generously.

My thanks, as ever, for the support of the branch committee over the last year and, as I step down from the role of Chairman, the last 6 years. I hope that they continue to assist Jon and Joe in the year ahead. Also thanks to our volunteers serving at the bar and clearing up the marquee which is truly appreciated and without whom this festival could not happen. Please remember this if you have a genuine complaint; although you might be a practised drinker, only a few of our team are professional bar staff but they are all keen to serve you.

Thanks also to the Liberation and other breweries, local hostelries and businesses who support this festival, sponsor this programme and the cask ale scene in Jersey. Particular mention should go to our Pub of the Year 2013, the Lamplighter which was selected as Wessex and Channel Islands regional winner and joins 15 other pubs vying to be UK Pub of the Year. Well done to Sean and his team, well deserved, and we wish him luck in the finals!

Finally our thanks to YOU for your attendance and support of both the festival and the local cask ale scene.

See you at the bar for a bitter what you fancy ;-)

Real Cider and Perry

Unlike the cold, pasteurised and fizzy mass-produced ciders and "pear ciders" you find at the pubs and supermarkets, the ones you'll find on our bar are a little special and different. Quite simply, traditional cider and perry only contain fermented apple or pear juice, and perhaps a little sugar.

Most of them are a blend, and thus there is a huge range of flavours and aromas dependent upon the fruit variety used and the region it is grown in. Great store is placed in the craft producer (not brewer) to create their specific style. There is also a scale of sweetness to dryness and like wine, each year's fruit produces a unique vintage. Alcoholic strengths vary from 3.8 - 8.5%.

Nearly all perry is made from perry pears, high in natural tannin, and mainly produced in Gloucestershire, Herefordshire and Monmouthshire. Unfortunately perry pears take longer to establish, although they are longer lived than cider apple trees (up to 300 years), so few growers live to see their orchard produce fruit ("pears for heirs"). They are also harder to harvest being 50-60' tall and the season (Sept. to Dec.) is short. With a 9-month fermentation, a natural glass of perry is to be savoured, not poured over ice.

We're delighted to offer you over 20 different ciders and perries, which we regularly change.

Please look on the board at the cider bar for the range that is available at any one time.
